

This may be the miracle age of inventions but not all of them have lived up to their advance notices.

One instance in which a likely idea didn't work out is cited by L. S. Levy, managing editor of the Oakland (Calif.) Tribune. Writing in the current issue of the newspaper trade Journal Editor & Publisher he reports the following item appeared in the Scientific American back in 1889:

"Subscribers to whom are rented machines can have left at their door every morning the waxy tablets known as phonograms, which can be wrapped about a cylinder and used in the phonograph."

"On these tablets will be impressed from the clear voice of a good talker a condensation of the best news of the day, which the subscribers can have talked back at them as they sit at their breakfast tables."

Obviously, even back in those days a householder resented having read out loud to him news which he could read for himself — and cannot news at that. The objection wasn't overcome until radio developed instantaneous news-casting a generation later — and the idea of news-on-a-record didn't outline its original announcement in 1889.

No matter how impressive the figures of its trial balance may be, even the largest of America's big industrial concerns is in the same boat with the little fellow when it comes to meeting the ups and downs of the business cycle.

This morning's mail brought me the financial report of a world-famous U. S. manufacturer, which, because of the nature of my comment, I am going to leave nameless. Looking over this report I note that the firm has 133 millions in cash and 22 millions in marketable securities, a total of 155 millions in cash assets.

But against this it has a spot liability of 267 millions in accounts payable and pay rolls. In order to fully cover this spot liability it must look to its second line of current assets, collection of 147 millions in trade accounts due the factory.

Here is one of our very largest American firms, and yet despite its size and wealth its daily operation requires quick collection of accounts due it so its working capital won't be wiped out.

Its wealth is truly enormous, for it has still a third line of current assets, 221 millions in inventories. But it takes time to convert inventories into finished, salable goods. That it risks so much money in inventories tells in a way how much confidence the company has in the immediate future of American business.

Nevertheless it is obvious that a company which has to collect on the bills due it almost as fast as it meets its own pay roll and bills isn't much different from a small-town merchant. And the big financial statement I have been reading is pretty much like those of all the major companies.

Their fortunes go up and down with the rest of us — as anybody knows who's been around the business world a while.

Woman Killed in Accident South on 29

One person was fatally injured and two others hurt when the tires of a pickup truck came loose causing the vehicle to overturn on Highway 29 about two miles south of Hope about 10 a.m. Monday.

Mrs. Benjamin F. Dickson, 27, of Cullen, Louisiana, sustained a cracked skull and died in a local hospital about 11:15 a.m. Her husband, driver of the auto, suffered severe arm lacerations and his father, Robert Lee Dickson, also sustained lacerations.

Out of control the vehicle went into a ditch and overturned several times. It was almost completely demolished. Investigating officers said Mrs. Dickson lost a lot of blood at the scene of the accident. She was rushed to a local hospital by a Herndon-Cornelius ambulance but died in a little more than an hour. Both the men, residents of Cullen, remain in the hospital here.

Investigating the accident were State Patrolman Guy Downing and Deputy Sheriff Jimmie Cook.

Two other accidents were investigated here over the weekend. A Missouri Pacific mail train crashed into a Jeep shortly before noon Saturday but the driver, J. O. Taylor, local contractor, jumped to safety before the impact. The incident occurred at Hazel Street crossing. The Jeep was destroyed and the train was delayed only a few minutes.

Autos driven by James Wright and Willie Cooper collided on East Third Street yesterday resulting in slight damage. City Officers investigated.

1,486 X-Rays for TB Made in Hempstead

There were 988 x-rays made Thursday and Friday in Hope at the clinic sponsored by the Hempstead County TB Association at the State Board of Health mobile unit. This made a total of 1486 for the four days the unit was in the county.

The PEO chapter of Hope furnished volunteer workers for the Thursday clinic. They were Mrs. Frank Horton, Mrs. Jim McKenzie, Mrs. Henry Haynes, Mrs. E. P. O'Neal, Mrs. F. C. Crow, Mrs. Mary Foster, Mrs. W. W. Compston and Mrs. Mack Stuart.

Those who assisted Friday were members of the Medical Auxiliary. Mrs. Jud Martindale, Mrs. Neil Crow, Mrs. J. G. Martindale, and Mrs. George Wright.

Also giving volunteer service were Mrs. Steve Carrigan, Jr., Mrs. P. J. Holt, Mrs. H. B. Barr, Mrs. Lloyd Spencer, and Mrs. W. E. Waller.

Chas. Reynerson, chairman of the County TB Association, expresses thanks for the many volunteer workers who made this the most successful clinic ever held in Hempstead. And he feels that the citizens are realizing the importance of taking this yearly x-ray. He regrets that some could not get x-rays due to a temporary difficulty with the x-ray machine. But a clinic is being planned for this fall when it is hoped many more will avail themselves of this service.

People Are Uncertain on the Ground But Get Them in the Air and Anything Can Happen

By HAL BOYLE

LONDON AIRPORT (AP) — People are uncertain enough when they are on the ground. But get them up in the air — and anything can happen.

That is why, although the air age has lost much of its glamor, the international air stewards wouldn't trade their jobs for a secretary's desk.

"You can never tell what people will ask you to do," said Kay Landring, "Once Gorgeous George, the wrestler, wanted me to help pin up his curls."

Kay and Evelyn Conlon were stewardesses aboard the Pan American Stratoclipper in which I flew here to attend the coronation. Most girls who adopt this high-flying career drop out after a few seasons but Kay and Evelyn have been at it more than seven years. Each has flown three million miles — the equivalent of 120 times around the earth — and touched every continent except Australia.

The work is hard and exciting.

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP) — Three flooding rivers aimed their muddy crests at the Southwest Louisiana Coast today, threatening a town of 2,000 and oil fields 40 miles south of here.

This city of 50,000 was still choked with floodwaters of the receding Calcasieu River, which left 15,000 homeless and $15,000,000 damage here. Health officials were vaccinating for typhoid, but no cases were reported.

While Lake Charles and its submerged Air Force base got ready to mop up, the little town of Cameropol, on the coast, braced for a water assault at the mouth of the Calcasieu.

The U. S. Weather Bureau here, in a bulletin warning late yesterday, predicted water up to three feet in Cameron's streets within 48 hours.

First Atomic Shell Set Off in Nevada

By LEE FERRERO

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (INS) — His- tory's first atomic artillery shell exploded over the atomized sands of the Nevada desert today, ushering in a new era of warfare.

The detonation took place at 8:30 a. m. PDT (10:30 a. m. CST) at the Atomic Energy Commission's Frenchman's Flat, 75 miles northwest of Las Vegas.

The shell, fired from a giant 280-millimeter cannon between seven and eight miles from ground zero, outshone the bright desert sun for a brief instant before sending up its familiar mushroom cloud.

The blast was described as "moderate" by veteran observers in Las Vegas. No shock or sound was felt or heard in the gambling spa.

Moments after the "flash bulb brilliance" of the detonation, the mushroom cloud began climbing over the seared desert wasteland.

Within minutes it had climbed to 40,000 feet, collecting a crown-like cap on top. The cloud was anchored by a pink tail.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Officials in the Pentagon said today there is no plan to reopen the Southwestern Proving Ground at Hope, Ark.

Court Rejects Appeal by Rosenbergs

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Supreme Court today rejected a third appeal by atomic spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg. They are awaiting death in the Sing Sing electric chair.

The high bench also vacated the stay of execution that had been granted the doomed couple by the second U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals pending Supreme Court action on their appeal.

Today's brief orders again leave the federal government legally free to carry out the execution — as soon as the trial court in New York is officially informed of the high court's action.

Technically, defense attorney Emanuel H. Bloch could ask reconsideration of today's action. In that case, he would apply to a single Supreme Court justice for an extension of stay of execution. President Eisenhower in February rejected the Rosenbergs' appeal for executive clemency.

Accused of Deal With Liquor Handler

WASHINGTON, (UP) — The Secretary of Treasury John W. Snyder intervened with the Internal Revenue Bureau in 1950 to get a favorable tax ruling on a liquor stock deal for a big Democratic campaign contributor. House investigators charged today.

Louis Johnson, who had been removed only a short time before as Secretary of Defense, also was interested in the case, a House Ways and Means subcommittee said.

The ruling was for John L. Leban, a vice president of Schenley Industries, Inc., who proposed to buy 20,000 shares of Schenley stock over a 20-year period at the 1950 market price, $26.50 a share. Leban asked the Internal Revenue Bureau to rule that, in event the stock value increased, his gain would not be taxed as income.

The Schenley stock already had gone up about $7 a share when the bureau was considering the request.

Leban had been previously identified as a big Democratic campaign contributor.

Subcommittee Counsel John E. TOBIN READ A MEMORANDUM TOBIN read a memorandum of a telephone call from Snyder to Charles Oliphant, then counsel of the Internal Revenue Bureau, saying:

"Louis Johnson is interested in this thing. If there is anything we can do, let's try to help them out." Oliphant replied, "okay."

Tobin said the call was made in September, 1950. Johnson had been fired by President Truman as Defense secretary about three months earlier.

Sylvan Tobolowsky, assistant head of the Internal Revenue interpretative section, said he and other bureau experts ruled against any such decision as that sought by Leban. Tobolowsky told the subcommittee the question should be decided after Leban had bought the stock, not on the basis of an oral agreement.

Leban had said he had an oral agreement on the stock deal with Louis Rosenstiel, Schenley president.

Tobolowsky said the law required profits made by an employer on purchase of stock from his employee to be taxed as income.

Court Rules for Paper at New Orleans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today decided 5-4 the New Orleans Times-Picayune Publishing Company did not violate the Sherman Anti-Trust Act by its advertising sales policy.

The Justice Department in a civil anti-trust suit brought during the Truman administration had charged the company with violating the law by requiring classified and national advertisers to buy space in both its morning and afternoon newspapers.

The department contended this was a "forced" rate method unfair to the New Orleans Item, a competing afternoon paper.

Justice Clark delivered the majority decision.

Justice Burton wrote a dissenting opinion in which Justices Black, Douglas and Minton joined. The majority thus was composed of Chief Justice Vinson and Justices Reed, Frankfurter and Jackson, in addition to Clark.

Clark wrote a 32-page opinion which reviewed the facts and law of the case and then said the record "does not establish the charged violations of the Sherman Act."

But Clark emphasized that the high court was ruling only on the circumstances involved in the Times-Picayune case. He wrote:

"We do not determine that unit advertising arrangements are lawful in other circumstances or in other proceedings."

"Our decision adjudicates solely that this record cannot substantiate the government's view of this case. Accordingly the district court's judgment must be reversed."

Fertilizer Can Help Late Planted Cotton

Hempstead County farmers faced with late planted cotton are urged to apply all the fertilizer at planting time to reduce hazards of delayed maturity. This is in keeping with emergency recommendations just received from the U. of Ark., College of Agriculture.

Later application of nitrogen as a side-dressing on late planted cotton could result in late growth and delayed maturity. It could also result in serious frost damage this fall as a result of having a large percentage of immature bolls on the cotton.

County Agent Oliver L. Adams recommends that farmers use the amount of nitrogen normally recommended for this crop.

High Court Reverses Itself

By LEON HATCH

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — In an unusual reversal of its own ruling, the Arkansas Supreme Court today held that a widow and child can not recover damages for the death of their husband and father after made to the dead man's father.

Elizabeth Reed and her minor child could maintain a court action against W. C. Levins in the death of Arthur Reed in a Nevada County traffic accident five years ago.

Today, the Court held that a consent judgment for $2,500 paid by Levins to Reed's father, and administrator of his estate, barred action by Mrs. Reed against Levins.

Any relief the widow and child may obtain, should be against Stuart, as administrator of the estate, and not against Levins, the Court said.

In the earlier opinion, the Court set out that the judgment had been turned over to Reed's father by Stuart.

When Reed was killed on Dec. 11, 1946, his parents did not know that he had married in California and was survived by a widow and child in that state.

UN Hands Reds Peace Plan, Talks Recessed

By HOWARD HANDLEMAN

PANMUNJOM, (INS) — Korea armistice negotiators met in secret session today at Panmunjom and after talking for two hours about a new Allied plan for prisoner exchange agreed to a recess for six days.

Both sides were light-lipped about the discussion and there was no hint of any developments.

It was believed that the Allies asked that the session be recessed until June 1, next Monday at 11 a.m. (8 p.m. Sunday CDT) because the Allied proposition was unfamiliar to them and called for study.

The chief Allied truce delegate, Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison, Jr., departed from his usual custom and did not talk to newsmen following the meeting.

He sent out word through an aide that the meeting was "executive" but did not give any reasons for the secrecy.

The Red and Allied delegations met in the Panmunjom conference house for more than an hour and a half in the morning and for 12 minutes in the afternoon.

During the lunchtime period, Lt. Col. Milton Herr, the Allied public information officer, announced that the discussion was secret. He refused to answer any questions.

The Monday meeting was the first in eight days. The Allies called a recess on Saturday May 10 for what they called "administrative reasons."

The information was later given out in Washington that the Allies were preparing a "last offer" which presumably was presented to the Reds during the secret meeting.

Newsmen of course were barred from the meeting but some observers peered through the windows of the Panmunjom conference house and said they saw many things they believed to be Allied interpretations of what was apparently a lengthy document.

This was not the first time secrecy has been invoked at the truce conference.

In April 1952, secret sessions were held when the question of repatriation of war prisoners—whether forcible or voluntary—arose as the major stumbling block to a truce.

Communist correspondents at Panmunjom first spread the word that the Monday session was to be held in secret at the request of the Allied delegation.

One Communist correspondent, childed Allied newsmen with the remark:

"You apparently have something to hide and don't want the world to know what your new plan is."

Russia Wants in on Any Big Conference

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union's latest major statement on elgn policy has made it plain the Kremlin strongly believes in a Big Four conference but just as strongly opposes Big Three talks which don't include the Russians.

The Soviet expression came in a full-page Pravda editorial yesterday. The Communist party organ 1. Condemned President Eisenhower's plan to meet with Prime Minister Churchill and a new French Premier. Such a meeting said Pravda, means a continuance of Western "collusion" against the Soviet Union and "can't be a part of the further heightening of the tension in international relations."

Generally approved, Churchill's proposal for talks by the Big East-West government leaders and particularly that "Churchill's earlier statement of the West would not tie up his proposal with any preliminary obligations to one or the other side."

3. Blasted American demand for further Soviet action as a preliminary to any East-West meeting. Regarding Korea and Austria (which Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles had been talking about).

They usually spend their savings on mounting vacation trips to spots in the world they haven't yet seen.

"Just like any other tourist," said Evelyn, "we dream of a houseboat on a lake in Kashmir or jolting on a beach in Bali, and that is where I want to go next."

"Those idle journeys have had their moments of excitement. Once Kay was in a car that broke down while going through a vast game preserve in Africa.

"Six of us had to stay there with the windows shut for 10 hours while lions and hyenas prowled around the car," said Kay.

"Yes," said Evelyn. "There was a wealthy stockman in the car, and I don't know why Kay didn't nab him before they were rescued. After all, he couldn't get away with all these lions outside."

Neither girl sees her ocean-hopping job as much more dangerous than routine office work. It holds this lure dear to any woman's heart — bargain hunting in far places. All the time, however, she is a shrewd shopper.

"What is the question most passengers ask them?"

"Well, the elderly men always seem curious about whether we have a boy friend in every port," said Evelyn.

And do they?

"In New York Evelyn has more than one friend," said Kay non-communally.

is arena where the Russians could back up their peace talk with power. Pravda said, "In both these cases things depend not on the Soviet Union but on the U. S. A. and England, which have not yet given their just share" in the world.

"Called for settlement of the Korean War and the German question to 'prepare the soil' for unification of other world issues," Pravda said Germany should be unified but that a "revival of German militarism" must be prevented; the last Communist proposals on Korean prisoners of war provide the "necessary basis for a practical solution of this last question which stands in the way of a truce and, therefore, the end of the war in Korea."

5. Dismissed as "worthless" Churchill's suggestion for Locarno-type treaties guaranteeing Germany against Russia and vice versa. The 1925 Locarno Pact, the editor said, had permitted Germany to re-arm and given her "freedom of action in the East" a new Locarno would result in "groupings of one set of countries against another... sharpening international relations."

To many diplomats here, the Pravda statement indicated a keen Russian interest in an East-West meeting. The statement made quite clear, though, that the Soviet Union would attend no such meeting, if the West insists the Soviet must do certain things before such a meeting.

Violence Hits Labor Scene

By The Associated Press

Violence broke out today on the nation's labor scene, where strikes have made more than 100,000 workers idle.

Three pickets and a sheriff's deputy were injured at Syracuse, N. Y., when white collar workers passed through picket lines at two strike-bound General Electric plants. Four members of the CIO International Union of Electrical Workers were held for questioning.

GE, which had invited its 4,000 salaried employees to return, said 670 white collar workers had passed through 500 to 1,000 pickets. There were reports that pickets turned back hundreds of others.

Some 7,000 GE production workers represented by U. I. E. struck seven weeks ago over local grievances.

The first break in a series of supplier strikes that have crippled a large segment of the auto industry came Sunday when a CIO United Auto workers local in Detroit ended a walkout at the Buick Co., caused by a jurisdictional dispute between its units.

A Company Is Known by the People It Keeps

SONS AND DAUGHTERS often follow their parents into telephone work. Here in Arkansas there are scores of second-generation telephone people — young men and women who evidently saw the satisfaction their parents got from telephone work and chose the same career. There are even some families in which the third generation is now embarked on telephone careers.

700 ARKANSANS WEAR THIS PIN, emblem of the "Telephone Pioneers," a social organization of people with 21 years or more in telephone work. Nearly one out of every five telephone people in Arkansas has been with the company long enough to qualify as a "Pioneer." As a group, they represent 19,000 years of telephone experience.

GOOD NEIGHBORS... GOOD CITIZENS
As a company, we're proud to be known by the capable people we keep for so many years. This is the best evidence that telephone people are interested and happy in their work. It is a good sign that they are also good neighbors... and good citizens of the communities they serve.

has been the subject of discussion in our group, and I'd like your opinion.

Answer: The baby-sitter's employer is the boss of any situation like this, and his opinion should set the rule. Some people permit baby sitters to have company of the opposite sex, others do not. My personal opinion is that it should not be permitted, especially if the sitter is very young — as in this case. Company of the same sex might be permitted, within reason, and if the young people behaved properly; that is, didn't play the radio or television too loudly, didn't over-ride the refrigerator, etc. Incidentally, I can recommend a very fine pamphlet for the use of baby-sitter and their employers. A self-addressed, stamped envelope will bring you its name.

Answer: Would it bother you as much if the borrower were your own sister rather than your wife's? I doubt it. At any rate, since the situation has progressed over so long a period of time, and your wife objects to any mention of it, I think you'd better resign yourself to the situation. If your wife wanted to stop the raids on her larder, she could do so quite simply by going to her sister the next day and borrowing the food back. A few trays of this nature would end all difficulty, but if your wife doesn't want to do it, don't think it's worth risking the harmony of your home to insist upon her taking steps.

Dear Miss Dix: My boy friend and I have been having many arguments because he goes with other girls. He gave me a friendship ring, and consequently I do not think he should date other girls.

Answer: Better return the ring until the young man makes up his mind whether he likes you enough to forego other dates. I judge that you are both too young for steady dating, and suggest that you go out with other boys.

Dear Miss Dix: Some people can be too trusting. A young girl works in my place of employment, and every night after work she meets her sister's husband and they go out. Although I've told the girl's people about this, they won't believe me. How can people be so blind?

Answer: Since the girl is only a fellow worker of yours, I think you are rather overstepping bounds in setting yourself up as her keeper. Your own conclusions are only suspicions, and it is definitely up to the girl's sister, and her parents to safeguard her morals; there's nothing you can do about it. Released by Bell Syndicate, Inc.

Answer: Are you becoming a collector of engagement rings? You like these boys only as friends, and are most reluctant to give up dates while they are away. Why bother, then, in becoming formally engaged to any boy? Wait until at least one is home for good, then perhaps you can make up your mind.

Dear Miss Dix: A boy of fifteen acts as my baby-sitter, and I'd like to know if he should be allowed to bring his friend along to keep him company while he's here. Would it change matters if the parents of the boy and girl approved of it? This problem is purely theoretical at present, but

Wilson Was Right, Job Is Whirling

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Charles E. Wilson said he would give the secretary of Defense the "darnedest job he has ever had." That was last November when the 62-year-old president of General Motors was picked by the then President-elect Eisenhower for his cabinet.

Things have been whirling ever since, and not always pleasantly. For the white-haired and roundish Wilson who gave up a story reported to be $100,000 a year to work in Washington for $22,500. At the moment the whirl he is caught up in is with Congress, with members of both parties.

His success or wisdom as secretary of Defense cannot be known yet. His relations with the military brass in the Pentagon have been kept pretty quiet. But in his dealings with Congress he has been less than a magician.

Wilson has frankly said he has no political ambitions. Eisenhower picked him because he was one of the great business managers of the country. As head of the Defense Department he would manage a branch of the government which has more dealings with American business than any other.

For him the whirl began early. When he went up to answer the routine questions of the Senate committee which had to pass on his appointment, he startled the members and the Eisenhower team by frankly talking at giving up his $22,500 salary in favor of holding his job in the Defense Department's biggest military contract holder.

Eventually he agreed to shed his stock, but only after much publicity, discussion and some criticism. What seemed puzzling was that Wilson had apparently not informed himself, before leaving Detroit, that this would be required of him before he could become Defense secretary.

Approved at last, he disappeared into the Pentagon where everyone knew what was expected of him: after all the Republican campaign promises of economy it would be up to him to provide the maximum defense at minimum cost.

This meant, of course, stepping on the toes, feelings and desires of a lot of generals and admirals who had ideas of their own.

If there were shuffles inside the Pentagon walls as Wilson's ax landed, he seems to have muffled them. They may come un-muffled if Congress starts poking around. Already an Air Force report, issued upon request of Rep. Yorty, California Democrat, has expressed differences with Wilson's slash of Air Force funds.

If Wilson and Eisenhower have any differences, they are not known. Publicly, Eisenhower backed him fully when on March 20 Wilson announced he does not think the country is fully prepared, but nevertheless he thinks cuts can be made in military manpower and spending without weakening combat strength.

Now it's up to Wilson to explain to Congress how the country can get more defense for less money.

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, Maine Republican, was so dissatisfied with his explanations to date that she sent him a long list of questions, asking him to get them answered by someone who knows the answers.

And two Democrats, Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington and Yorty, have called on Wilson to resign. It was the first time this happened to a member of the Eisenhower Cabinet, although it goes to be a familiar song with members of President Truman's Cabinet.
